

HS 2370 “EMPORIUM” HISTORIC POLE WITH LIGHTING FIXTURE

Type: HS 2370
“EMPORIUM” - SP

Basic Information

The architect Lindsbauer and sculptor Wesely designed this pole with the lighting fixture of the HS 2370 type designation in 1862. Its name comes from its original location at the Mala Strana emporium. Today, the original gas lamp is replaced with 100 W, 150 W, or 250 W sodium discharge lamps, or a 100 W and 150 W halide discharge lamps; all these lamps are covered with opal glass.

The fixture is primarily suitable for illumination of narrow less frequented streets, or even parks and gardens in cities' historic centres.

Technical Description

The HS 2380 lighting fixture is mounted on the HS 2370 special-design historic pole that highlights the overall arrangement of this fixture. The fixture's optical housing is made of polycarbonate to increase resistance against vandalism and the UV radiation effects. Apart from the steel shaft and the extender, all other parts are made of cast iron. The finish is carried out with metallic paint and synthetic coating as per the customer's wish. The pole body is sectioned crosswise and its head is decorated with simply styled elements. As per the customer's wish, the fixture may also be made in the two-arm arrangement. The optical section offers protection corresponding to the IP65 level; the electric section complies with the IP43 level. Regarding this, it is possible to guarantee excellent luminous properties and no need for maintenance in the long-term.
